Warriors don't cry: A searing memoir of the battle to integrate Little Rock's Central High

by Melba Pattillo Beals Year Published: 1994 Call number 92 Beals

A riveting true story of an embattled teenager who paid for integration with her innocence. Beals chronicles her harrowing junior year at Central High where she underwent the segregationists' brutal organized campaign of terrorism which included telephone threats, vigilante stalkers, economic blackmailers, rogue police, and much more.

In 1957 Melba Pattillo turned sixteen. That was also the year she became a warrior on the front lines of a civil rights firestorm. Following the landmark 1954 Supreme Court ruling, Brown v. Board of Education, she was one of nine teenagers chosen to integrate Little Rock's Central High School. This is her remarkable story.

Nature / Adventure / Science

Kinder, Gary. Ship of Gold in the Deep Blue Sea. (Engineer's scheme to salvage $1 billion) Junger, Sebastian. The Perfect Storm. (Swordfish boat vs. Mother Nature)

Machiavelli, Niccolo The Prince (A treatise giving the absolute ruler practical advice on ways to maintain a strong central government)

Gwynne, S.C. Empire of the Summer Moon: Quanah Parker and the Rise and Fall of the Comanches, The Most Powerful Indian Tribe in American History (war with Comanches, story of Cynthia Parker whose son became the last and greatest chief of the Comanche tribe)

In the Heart of the Sea : The Tragedy of the Whaleship Essex

by Philbrick, Nathaniel Year Published: 2000 Call number 910 PHI

Recounts the story of the 1820 wreck of the whaleship Essex, which inspired Melville's classic "Moby-Dick," and describes its doomed crew's ninety-day attempt to survive whale attacks and the elements on three tiny lifeboats.

Just Mercy: A Story of Justice and Redemption

by Stevenson, Bryan

Year Published: 2014

Call number 92 Stevenson

Bryan Stevenson was a young lawyer when he founded the Equal Justice Initiative, a legal practice dedicated to defending those most desperate and in need: the poor, the wrongly condemned, and women and children trapped in the farthest reaches of our criminal justice system. One of his first cases was that of Walter McMillian, a young man who was sentenced to die for a notorious murder he insisted he didn't commit. The case drew Bryan into a tangle of conspiracy, political machination, and legal brinkmanship—and transformed his understanding of mercy and justice forever.

Candyfreak : A Journey Through The Chocolate Underbelly Of America

by Almond, Steve

Year Published: 2005 Call number 338.4 ALM

A self-proclaimed candy fanatic and lifelong chocoholic traces the history of some of the much-loved candies from his youth, describing the business practices and creative candy-making techniques of some of the small companies.

There Are No Children Here : The Story of Two Boys Growing Up in the Other America

by Kottlowitz, Alex

Year Published: 1992 Call number 305.23 KOT

A touching, meticulous portrait of two boys growing up in a Chicago housing project reveals how they help each other maintain a shred of innocence among street gangs, gunfire, violence, and drugs.

True Crime

Berendt, John. Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil. (entertaining true crime story) Metress, Christopher. The Lynching of Emmett Till: A Documentary Narrative. (murder in the south) The Devil and the White City. Larson, Erik. (the Chicago World's Fair and the first serial killer)

Columbine

by Cullen, Dave

Year Published: 2010

Call number 373.788 CUL

Provides an account of the shootings at Colorado's Columbine High School on April 20, 1999, focusing on the teenage killers Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold, drawing from interviews, police files, psychological studies, and writings and tapes by the boys to look at the signs they left that disaster was looming.

More General Nonfiction and “Recommended by AP Language and Comp. Students from the Class of 2019-2020” (noted with an * )

*Black Boy. Wright, Richard. (Life to age 19 in the deep south)

*Black Like Me. Griffin, John Howard. (Eyewitness history by white man who becomes black)

*We Wish to Inform You Tomorrow We Will be Killed with Our Families. Gourevitch, Phillip. (Rwanda Genocide)

*Beautiful Boy: A Father's Journey through His Son's Addiction. Sheff, David. (father's anguished account of his promising son's meth addiction and its painful impact on the entire family is honest, raw, and full of information about the realities of drug addiction)

Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance. Pirsig, Robert.(travel, philosophy and bikes)

Driving Mr. Albert: A Trip Across America with Einstein's Brain. Paterniti, Michael. (yes, it's true)

*On the Road. Kerouac, Jack. (cross country bohemian adventure)

*The Radioactive Boy Scout: The True Story of a Boy and His Backyard Nuclear Reactor
Silverstein, Ken. (boy's obsession with nuclear energy creates radioactive device with potential to spark environmental disaster in his community)

*How the Irish Saved Civilization. Cahill, Thomas. (just what the title suggests)

*King of the World. Remnick, David. (Ali as racial and cultural hero in the 1950's)

*The Glass Castle Walls, Jeannette. (story of childhood with eccentric, bordering on abusive parents)

*Isaac Newton. Gleick, James.(Comprehensive and intimate look at a great scientist)

*The Devil in the Shape of a Woman: Witchcraft in Colonial New England Karlsen, Carol (The status of women in colonial society affects the Salem witch accusations)

*T.Rex and the Crater of Doom Alvarez, Walter. (story of impact theory of dinosaur extinction development)

* The Road Less Traveled by M. Scott Peck – Pretty much the granddaddy of all self-improvement books, it's easily one of the best nonfiction works I've ever read. By melding love, science, and spirituality into a primer for personal growth, Peck guides the reader through lessons on delaying gratification, accepting responsibility for decisions, dedicating oneself to truth and reality, and creating a balanced lifestyle.

Radical Honesty by Brad Blanton – The book's basic point is sound – honesty is the best policy. With a brash, 'in your face' writing style, Blanton states that lying is the primary cause of human stress and advocates strict truthfulness as the key to achieving intimacy in relationships and happiness in life.

*Random Family. Leblanc, Adrian Nicole. (Four teens grow up in the Bronx)

The Art of Learning by Josh Waitzkin – Josh Waitzkin transformed himself from a championship chess master into an elite Tai Chi martial arts practitioner. This book is part autobiography, part chess memoir, and part martial arts philosophy. Essentially, Waitzkin offers his own approach to becoming a student and applying certain disciplines and habits toward learning and eventually mastering any skill.

Scratch Beginnings: Me, $25, and the Search for the American Dream by Adam Shepard – Shepard started his life over from scratch in Charleston, South Carolina, with $25 and the clothes on his back. He lived in a homeless shelter while looking for work. His goal was to start with nothing and, within a year, work hard enough to save $2500, buy a car, and to live in a furnished apartment. "Scratch Beginnings" is sometimes sad, sometimes amusing, pointed and thought provoking - all the makings of a book well worth reading.

*Death Be Not Proud. Gunther, John. (Father tells of 17 year old's struggle with brain tumor)

The Joy of Simple Living by Jeff Davidson – A great resource for anyone wanting to cut down on the clutter and confusion in their life. Davidson takes a step-by-step, easy to follow approach to simplifying your house, garage, office, car, etc. Not only will you learn to create an orderly home, you'll gain the knowledge necessary to be a more successful spouse, parent, and worker by learning how to prioritize and simplify.

* How to Talk to Anyone by Leil Lowndes – Another practical book about conversational people skills. Lowndes helps the reader discover how to make small talk work, how to break the ice, how to network at a party, how to use body language to captivate your audience, and much more.

*Change Me Into Zeus' Daughter. Moss, Barbara. (Female version of Angela's Ashes)

Nickel and Dimed by Barbara Ehrenreich – This is the book that provoked Adam Shepard to write "Scratch Beginnings." It's another first person perspective on poverty in America. In the book, Ehrenreich moves into a trailer and works as a waitress, hotel maid, and Wal-Mart sales clerk. Nickel and Dimed reveals low-rent America in all its tenacity, anxiety, and duality. I found it to be an extremely thought-provoking read.

Outliers: The Story of Success by Malcolm Gladwell – Gladwell embarks on an intellectual journey to figure out what separates the best, the brightest, and the most successful people from everyone else. He investigates these high achievers by looking closely at their culture, family, generation, and the individual experiences of their upbringing. This book really gets you thinking about success from a totally different perspective.

Freakonomics by Steven Levitt and Stephen Dubner – This book just may redefine the way you look at the modern world. Through skillful storytelling and wry insight, Levitt and Dubner set out to explore the hidden side of everything from the inner workings of a crack gang to the myths of political campaign finance to the true importance or unimportance of gun control. It's an eye-opening read.

*Fast Food Nation by Eric Schlosser – “What we eat has changed more in the last forty years than in the last forty thousand,” Schlosser observes, yet most Americans know very little about how that food is made, where, by whom, and at what cost. In a wonderfully horrifying way, this book exposes the American fast food industry's evil side. It's a true eye-opener.

Stumbling on Happiness by Daniel Gilbert – Gilbert, a Harvard professor of psychology has studied happiness for decades, and he shares scientific findings that just might change the way you look at the world. His primary goal is to persuade you into accepting the fact that happiness is not really what or where you imagined it would be. This is my favorite book on happiness by a long shot.

*The Now Habit by Neil Fiore – Quite possibly the best book ever written on overcoming procrastination. Fiore provides an optimistic, empathetic, and factual explanation of why we procrastinate and then delivers practical, immediately applicable tips for reversing the procrastination spell. On many levels, this book saved my life.

The Tipping Point by Malcolm Gladwell – Gladwell looks at how small ideas can spread like viruses, sparking global sociological changes. The ‘tipping point’ is that magic moment when an idea, trend, or social behavior crosses a threshold, tips, and spreads like wildfire. Just as a single sick person can start an epidemic of the flu, so too can a small but precisely targeted push cause a fashion trend, the popularity of a new product, or a drop in the crime rate.

Barracoon : the story of the last "black cargo"

by Zora Neale Hurston Year Published: 2018 Call number 306.3 HUR

In 1927, Zora Neale Hurston went to Plateau, Alabama, just outside Mobile, to interview eighty-six-year-old Cudjo Lewis. Of the millions of men, women, and children transported from Africa to America as slaves, Cudjo was then the only person alive to tell the story of this integral part of the nation's history. Hurston was there to record Cudjo's firsthand account of the raid that led to his capture and bondage fifty years after the Atlantic slave trade was outlawed in the United States.

Kabul Beauty School : An American Woman Goes Behind the Veil

by Rodriguez, Deborah Year Published: 2007 Call number 305.48 ROD

Soon after the fall of the Taliban, in 2001, Deborah Rodriguez went to Afghanistan as part of a humanitarian aid group. Surrounded by people whose skills—as doctors, nurses, and therapists—seemed eminently more practical than her own, Rodriguez, a hair dresser and mother from Michigan, despaired of being of any real use. Yet she found she had a gift for befriending Afghans, and once her profession became known she was eagerly sought out by Westerners desperate for a good haircut and by Afghan women, who have a long and proud tradition of running their own beauty salons. Thus the idea for the Kabul Beauty School was born. Within that small haven, the line between teacher and student quickly blurred as these vibrant women shared with Rodriguez their stories and their hearts, ultimately giving her the strength to leave her own unhealthy marriage and allow herself to love again, Afghan style.

Big Sort : Why the Clustering of Like-Minded America Is Tearing Us Apart

by Bishop, Bill

Year Published: 2008 Call number 305.8 BIS

America may be more diverse than ever coast to coast, but the places where we live are becoming increasingly crowded with people who live, think, and vote as we do. We've built a country where we can all choose the neighborhood—and church and news show—most compatible with our lifestyle and beliefs. And we are living with the consequences of this way-of-life segregation. Our country has become so polarized, so ideologically inbred, that people don't know and can't understand those who live just a few miles away. The reason for this situation, and the dire implications for our country, is the subject of this groundbreaking work.

A People's History of the United States by Howard Zinn – Although this book is likely to be more interesting to Americans than citizens of other countries, it's truly a great read either way. Covering Christopher Columbus's arrival through President Clinton's years in office, as well as the 2000 election and the War on Terrorism, the book features an insightful and frank analysis of the most important events in American history told from the perspective of minorities and the working class.

* The Devil in the White City: Murder, Magic, and Madness at the Fair that Changed America. Larson, Erik. Tale of early 20th Century Chicago World's Fair.

Manchester, William. A World Lit Only by Fire: The Medieval Mind and the Renaissance: Portrait of an Age. This is the preeminent popular history of civilization's rebirth after the Dark Ages

Read, Piers Paul. Alive. —Sixteen Men, Seventy-two Days, and Insurmountable Odds—The Classic Adventure of Survival in the Andes.

Salt : A World History

by Kurlansky, Mark Year Published: 2003 Call number 553.6 KUR

Chronicles the history of salt, discussing how it has shaped civilizations from the earliest beginnings of world history and how it has been used in different cultures.

The 57 Bus: A True Story of Two Teenagers and the Crime That Changed Their Lives

by Slater, Dashka

Year Published: 2017 Call number 364.15 SLA

One teenager in a skirt.

One teenager with a lighter.

One moment that changes both of their lives forever.

If it weren't for the 57 bus, Sasha and Richard never would have met. Both were high school students from Oakland, California, one of the most diverse cities in the country, but they inhabited different worlds. Sasha, a white teen, lived in the middle-class foothills and attended a small private school. Richard, a black teen, lived in the crime-plagued flatlands and attended a large public one. Each day, their paths overlapped for a mere eight minutes. But one afternoon on the bus ride home from school, a single reckless act left Sasha severely burned, and Richard charged with two hate crimes and facing life imprisonment. The case garnered international attention, thrusting both teenagers into the spotlight.

Stanton, Doug. Into Harm's Way: The Sinking of the U.S.S. Indianapolis and the Extraordinary Story of Its Survivors. Best selling account of WW II naval disaster, (Japanese submarine torpedo's US ship in 1945)...a classic tale of war, survival, and extraordinary courage.

Twenge, Jean M. The Narcissism Epidemic: Living in the Age of Entitlement (2009).

Zakaria, Fareed. Post-America World. An important book by one of today's most influential journalists.

No One Cares About Crazy People: The Chaos and Heartbreak of Mental

Health in America

by Powers, Ron

Year Published: 2017 Call number 362.2 POW

Author Ron Powers offers a searching, richly researched narrative of the social history of mental illness in America paired with the deeply personal story of his two sons' battles with schizophrenia.
